

PROGRAMME, AvH UK Annual Meeting 2018
21 September 2018, Council Chamber, University of Manchester
Building B004, Sackville Street, M1 3BB, Manchester

10:30-10:50	Coffee & registration
10:50-11:00	Prof. Aditi Lahiri (University of Oxford) President, AvH Association UK Welcome
11.00-11.30	Prof. John Baines (University of Oxford) A unique ancient Egyptian tale: between Oxford, Leipzig, and Würzburg
11.30-12.00	Dr Amit Chattopadhyay (Aston University) Changing lifestyle to quell coronary heart diseases
12.00-13.30	Lunch - provided (& ECM for Executive Committee)
13.30-14.30	AGM (including discussion of future AvH meetings outside London & South)
14.30-15.00	Prof. Galina Paramei (Liverpool Hope University) Chromatic discrimination across the life span: Implications for the "silver generation" in colour-vision demanding occupations
15.00-15.30	Prof. Roy Ruddle (University of Leeds) Using dashboard networks to visualize multiple patient histories
15.30-16.00	Coffee
16.00-16.30	Mr Stephan Heiser, Alexander von Humboldt Foundation, Bonn (via Skype) Funding opportunities at the Humboldt Foundation
16.30-17.30	The Brian Ketterer Lecture: Prof. Aditi Lahiri (University of Oxford) Journey of words
17.30	Formal close
17.45	Wine / soft drinks reception

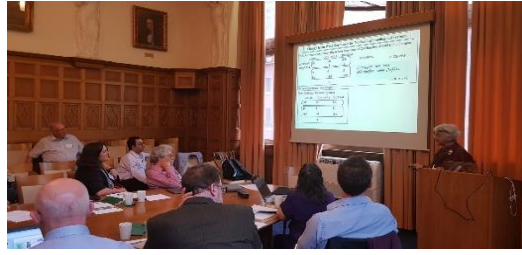

AvH UK Association Annual Meeting 2018 in Manchester

Attendees enjoy some discussions over coffee before the meeting.

Above: Dr Chattopadhyay speaking on the use of medical data to inform lifestyle change. Below: Professor Lahiri delivering the Brian Ketterer Lecture entitled 'Journey of Words'

Professor Baines unravels an ancient Egyptian tale.

Left: Professor Paramei describes the changes in colour vision across our life.

Right: Professor Lahiri uses sound recordings to illustrate her point.

Left: Prof. Paramei revealing fascinating links between health and colour vision.

Right: Prof. Baines explains the process for deciphering his original source.

Many of the attendees stayed for the reception afterwards, enjoying a glass of wine with the speakers.